Great Britain: Abolition of Slavery in the Colonies

Great Britain: Abolition of Slavery in the Colonies

Form: Circular. Pierced at 12 o'clock. By: T. Halliday, Birmingham

Date: 1834

Ref: AM2: 10; BHM: 1670; Laidlaw: 0249c; Variations: Size Metal Mass Value

32.3 mm White Metal 9.3 gm $280

Edge: Plain.

Obverse: An African family giving thanks: man wearing a loin cloth standing on the right, his right arm raised, facing kneeling wor child. Woman both arms raised, child hands clasped in front. Bushes on the left and right. On the ground, discarded ma Legend: "GIVE GLORY TO GOD". In the exergue: "HALLIDAY . F"

Reverse: Across: "JUBILEE (in an arc) / IN / COMMEMORATION / OF THE / ABOLITION / OF / SLAVERY / IN THE / BRITISH COLONIES / IN THE REIGN OF / WILLIAM IV / AUG . 1. 1834".

Notes: The terms of Slavery Abolition Act of 1833 became law on 1st August 1834 throughout most of the British Empire. In So Africa this was delayed until 1st December 1834. Under the Act slave ownership was abolish and replace by a transition period of paid apprenticeships whereby freed slaves were to continue working for their past masters who were compentate Government for the imposed financial losses. A sum of 20,000 pounds sterling was allocated for this purpose.

The social and financial adjustments in a country like South Africa where slavery was commonplace were substantial. The exacerbated the existing resentment against British rule by the people of Dutch descent and was a major factor contributed decision by thousands of these people to leave the Cape Colony for the north in an exodus later known as the Great The 'voortrekkers' settled in territories which became the Boer Republics of the Orange Free State and the Transvaal.